SPECIMENS BEFORE THE SOCIETY FOR PSYCHICAL RESEARCH.

A Missing Book Found in a Little Used Room by Its Ald-W. Statuton Mosco's Journey Without His Body Story of a Who Nat on the Mantelplece While a Physician Labored to Restore His Apparently Bend Body to Life.

Thought transference, automatic writing, telepathy, supernormal messages, and psychical phenomena in all their forms held forth last night at a meeting of the local branch of the Society for Psychical Research in Hamilton Hall, Columbia College. The parent society has its headquarters in London, and at infrequent intervals the members of the New York branch come together to listen to papers which have been read and passed upon by the researchers across the water. Dr. Richard Hodgson of Boston was the principal speaker, and the papers he read were listened to with rapt attention by the 350 or more thought transferrers present. In a paper by Miss X., a frequent contributor at the meetings of the London society, many remarkable incidents of thought transference were presented. She was one day lying on s bench in the garden. She had been ill, and had been carried to the garden, so there was no possibility of her going into the house and returning without being conscious of it. A friend who was staying at her home came out to her, and said that a certain book, which she had laid down in the hall, was missing. Miss X--- immediately said it was on the bed in the bine room, a room, by the way, which was seldom used. The book was after-

Miss X— immediately said it was on the bed in the blue room, a room, by the way, which was seldom used. The book was afterward found there, it having been carried to the blue room, with a number of other volumes, by some workmen who had been engaged to move a part of the library.

Dr. Hodgson then read some extracts from H. Myers's third paper on "The Experiences of W. Myers's third paper on "The Experiences of W. Stainton Moses." an automatic writer of fame who died recently, whose literary remains he edited. Here is one of the experiences Mr. Moses wrote of leaving his own body: On Sunday, Jan. 25, 1884, he was seated at his desk writing in the early afternoon. He nad only arisen from a long sleep a few hours before, and he could not possibly account for what followed upon the theory that he fell asleep and dreamed it. Suddenly he found himself standing beside his own body, which remained seated at the writing table. Next be was aware of the figure of the Prophet, one of his old friends from the supernatural. He was robed in blue, and his long white beard swept his breast. The old man told him to follow, and they glided out of the room through the side wall, which melted at their approach. They had a long journey through a strange land, the scenery of which was very beautiful, and, in a cottage by the mountain side, he saw his grandmother. Stainton, long dead. The details of his return to his body were not very clear to him, but when he came to himself he was still seated at the writing table, with his pen beside him. The link on the paper was very dry, but he had no idea of how long he had been absent from his body.

Dr. Hodgson then related the experience of Michael Waters, a soldier, who was in a hospital under the care of his friend, Dr. Chandler. He said that Waters became unconscious one day, and to all appearances he was dead. His heart ceased to beat, and the breath left his body. Dr. Chandler would not believe that the soldier was dead, so he kept rubbing his body. Pinally he called in the surgeon of

After the papers were all read there was a iscussion as to the merits of spiritualism and hought transference between living persons. One of the speakers said that he was a devous ellever in the appearance of disembodied pirits, and his remarks were greeted with nearty applause.

STRUCK HIM WITH A CANE. Jacob Rothschild Accused of Assault by

Charles Henry Speirs has been a foreman in the employ of Jacob Rothschild, a dealer in millinery, at 56 West Fourteenth street, for ten years. On Monday, according to Speirs, he was accused by his employer, in the presence of other employees and many customers, of stealing a roll of velvet. Speirs asked for an investigation, but it was not made. On Tuesday, Speirs, in company with a friend name Harvey, went to Mr. Rothschild's private office and insisted that the milliner prove the accusation of the day before. According to Speirs Rothschild said:

"I didn't say you stole velvet, and you won't get any more satisfaction. Now, get out of here!"

get any more satisfaction. Now, get out of here!"
With that Rothschild bicked up a heavy walking stick, so it is alleged, and struck Speirs over the head with it, causing a scalp wound. Harvey rushed into the street and called a policeman, who went into the store, arrested Rothschild, and took him to the Charles street station. The Sergeant on duty sent Rothschild to Jefferson Market Court, where he was balled for appearance this morning.
Yesterday afternoon Speirs retained Lawyer George W. Gibbons, and he now intends to bring a civil action against Rothschild in the sum of $100,000 for defamation of character. Lawyer Gibbons said that the papers in the suit would be served this morning.

FALLS FROM THE MARYLAND.

Jeweller Clampitt Gets a Bucking on His Way to Philadelphia,

G. W. Clampitt, 67 years old, a jeweller of Attleborough, Mass., was a passenger on the night express on the New Haven Railroad on Tuesday. As he was going to Philadelphia, he was in one of the cars which was run aboard the steamboat Maryland for transportation to New Jersey by water.

the steamboat Maryland for transportation to New Jersey by water.

He got out of the car and went forward to get a view of the river. His right leg is shorter than the left, and he is obliged to wear a thick-soled shee to correct the difference. The heavy shoe often causes him to stumble.

It did so as he reached the bow of the boat, and he sitched headforemost into the water. His cries for help were heard by the deck hands, and they hastened to his assistance.

One of them plunged overboard, while his mates lowered a boat and dragged him and Mr. Clampitt into it. The rescued man was unconscious when the ambulance, which was summoned from Harlem Hospital, arrived, but Dr oswaid succeeded in reviving him by vigorous treatment, and last hight he was apparently but little the worse for his ducking.

AIMED AT BIG HATS IN THEATRES. The Assembly Committee on General Law

Vote to Report Mr. Cutler's Bill. ALBANY, Jan. 30,-People laughed when Asemblyman Cutler of Rockland county intenduced a bill aimed at the custom of wearing big hats at theatres. When first introduced the measure looked very much like a joke, but tomorrow the committee will report the bill favorably to the House. There was some fun in the Committee on General Laws when it had the bill under conelderation this afternoon. Each of the members of the committee, with the exception of Mr. Donnelly of New York, arose in his place and said that he desired the passage of the bill. as he had been imposed upon at one time or another by women who insisted upon wearing elaborate headgear in places of public entertainment.

The two men who have the reputation of being the best-dressed members in the House-Messrs. Keck of Fulton and Hamilton, and Wray of Kings-both said emphatically that at a recent date their view in a theatre had been obstructed by a big hat, and they were followed by Mr. Cutler and other members who had had similar experiences. Mr. Donnelly posed as the defender of the downtrodden female sex, and insinuated that the bill was introduced in favor of the small-hat monopoly. The committee decided to re-port the bill.

It provides that it shall be the duty of every proprietor or manager of every theatre, concert, lecture, performance, or other public entertainment, to provide rules and regulations for his place, with the object of maintaining unobstructed aisles and exits, proper order and comfort among the audience, freedom from disturbing or annoying noises, and of insuring to any and every visitor the unimpaired enjoyment and the unobstructed view of such entertainment, Any person having purchased a ticket to a seat at a public entertainment, and finding the views from said seat of such entertainment, and finding the views from said seat of such entertainment or performance obstructed, or the proper quietness disturbed, by any cause within the control of the proprietor or manager of such place, to his or her annoyance, shall have the right to demand of the proprietor or manager of such place the return of the price of such ticket, on surrendering the check entitling him or her to the seat, unless such obstruction or annoyance interfering with his or her unimpaired and proper enjoyment and view of such entertainment or performance shall have been immediately removed or stopped on his or her calling the attention of such proprietor or subordinates to the saue. One section of the bill is as follows:

Any person who shall, by his or her action, annoy or obstruct others in the proper enjoyment or view

Any person who shall, by his or her action, annoy or obstruct others in the proper enjoyment or view of a public entertainment shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeaper, and on conviction and proof thereof shall be flied not exceeding $20.

If a manager refuses to return money received for tickets from a person whose view is obstructed he is liable to a fine of four times the amount paid for the ticket.

SAYS HIS WIFE SWORE FALSELY. Bernard Wants His Marriage Annulled Be

Mrs. Leah Bernard, wife of Joseph Bernard, a well-to-do manufacturer of essential oils, was arraigned yesterday in the General Sessions, before Recorder Goff, upon an indictment charging her with perjury.

She was married to Bernard in 1885. He was then a widower with children. The family went to Paris to live, and the children of the former marriage made trouble between husband and wife. Bernard instituted an action for divorce in Paris, naming nine co-respondents. Then the scene of the litigation was changed to this city, and Bernard, through his counsel, moved to amend his complaint by substituting for the nine co-respondents, one co-respondent, who had not been mentioned the nine. His motion was denied, and the order denying the motion was appealed from to the Court of Appeals. There the order was sustained. Therefore, the divorce proceedings are still pending. Mrs. Bernard had a valuable dog, which was lost or stolen, and, it is said, she received word that the dog could be found at Taylor's Hotel. She went there, and was arrested at the instance of four men, said to be agents of her husband, upon a charge of adultery. The complaint was dismissed in a Jersey City court. Then she charged the four men with perjury, and their case is pending.

Next Bernard declared he had discovered that his wife married a man named Bosel, nineteen years ago, and had never been divorced from Bosel. Thereupon he instituted an action for the annulment of his marriage to her.

Pending the decision of the action, she asked for counsel fees, making affidavit that she had never been the wife of Bosel. The case was sent to a referee, and while the reference was proceeding she was indicted for perjury in swearing to the affidavit that she had never been the wife of Bosel.

Mrs. Bernard pleaded not guilty to the indiction of the property and her control asked the record of the property and her control asked the record of the property and her control asked the record of the property and the control asked the record of the property and the control asked the record of the property and the control asked the record of the property and the control asked the record of the control asked the c from to the Court of Appeals, There

MISS PERCY'S SCARRED FACE.

She Gets a Verdict for $1,750 Against the Consolidated Traction Company.

Miss Lillian Percy of 70 Glenwood avenue Jersey City, got a verdict for $1,750 yesterday afternoon in the Circuit Court for damages sus tained in a collision between her pony cart and one of the Consolidated Traction Company's trolley cars on the Newark line. Miss Percy had her young nephew, Douglas S. Schenck, out for a drive. Her cart was struck by the car at Crescent and Communipaw avenues and wrecked. Miss Percy exhibited to the jury a very pretty face disfigured by a scar resulting from the collision.

Swearing Allegiance to the Czar.

A large number of Russians of the Greek atholic faith took advantage yesterday of the last day allowed by the Russian Government to take the oath of allegiance to the new Czar. The ceremony took place in the office of the Consul-General of Russia, A. E. Oravsky, at 24 Consul-General of Russia, A. E. Oravsky, at 24 State street. The oath was read by Father Baaciz of Jersoy City.

On two or three days of each week for the last month the privilege has been allowed those Russians who desire to go through the ceremony at the Consul-General's office. Yesterday the privilege was withdrawn, and those who take the oath in the future will have to go to Russia to do so. More than 2,500 persons have sworm allegiance to the new Czar in this city during the last forty days.

Mr. Tree and His Company Give " A Hone

Application for a Removal of the Receivers Will He Heard This Morning Separate Receivers Appointed in Cincinnati and Trere Mante-Attachment Issued Here. CHICAGO, Jan. 30 .- Judge Grosseup, in Champers, this afternoon issued an order in the Whiskey Trust receivership case requiring its maintenance in statu quo, prohibiting the directors from buying or selling any of the property of serve the assets. The Court also ordered that no action should be taken to carry out an assignment or a transfer of the property to the receivers until a further hearing on the motion o remove the receivers, which was set by Judge Freescup for to-morrow morning.

Richard B. Hartshorne of New York, Chair-

ern stockholders, arrived here from Cincinnati his morning, accompanied by Nathan Bijur of New York, counsel for the committee. They held a consultation with Attorney Levy Mayer when they arrived here, and the result was that Mr. Mayer appeared before Judge Grosscup to ask for the stay order, which was granted. Chairman Hartshorne received a telegram from the other New York members of the committee saying that the committee now controlled nearly 300,000 out of a total of 350,000 shares of whiskey stock. He said in regard to the move of President Greenhut and his associates: Last Saturday our committee secured con trol of a majority of the stock and telegraphed

Mr. Greenbut that a conference with him and the directors was desired at Peoria to-day. Mr. Greenhut's reply was that he could not ascertain until Monday when the Board would meet us. On Monday he wired us that the directors the directors was desired at Peoria to-day. Mr. Greenhut's reply was that he could not ascertain until Monday when the Board would meet us. On Monday he wired us that the directors would met us at Peoria to-morrow. It now appears that on the day he told us he could meet our committee on Thursday he caused to be prepared the bill for the appointment of a receiver, and to give color to his pretended fairness he arranged to have Mr. Lawrence, the business associate of Nelson Morris, recently a director of the trust, and for many years a partner of Mr. Greenhut, appointed coreceiver with him. During the twenty-four hours suppression of the receivership fact some well-known people at this end unloaded considerable whiskey stock. "The bill filed on Monday is presumed to be on behalf of plaintiffs, who hold 1,700 shares. They are John F. Olmstead, Charles Heinsheimer, and S. L. Wormser, all of whom are clerks or partners in a prominent broker's office in New York. These brokers have been aged for orewers. They are supposed to be short of 20,000 shares of the stock.

Judge Grosscup, in explaining the manner in which the receivership was granted, said that Attorney Burry representing the day about the matter slipped from his mind, and he went homing to his courtroom after adjournment, but the matter slipped from his mind, and he went home, to his courtroom after adjournment, but the matter slipped from his mind, and he went home, where the lawyers for both stockholders and company appeared and the proceedings were conducted in the usual manner.

In regard to the secrecy which surrounded the proceedings, the chief clerk of United States Circuit Court Clerk Burnham's office said "we had promised to keep the matter quiet until it was made public through the Clerk's office at Peoria. It is not an unusual thing to accommodate attorneys in this manner when both sides desire it, but of course never when the bill or suit is a matter of record in a court unless service is not had on defendants. Then we are allowed one day of sup

When the trust in October last abolished rebatesales, the American Distributing Company, it is stated, had about 245,000 gallons of spirits on hand which it was compelled to sell at market rates, less the seven cents aiready paid, and the present suit is to recover the amount aiready paid to the trust on these gallons. The attachment was given to Deputy Sheriff Henning to serve.

CRITICISES THE ENCYCLICAL. Bishop Latane Praises and Condemas the

the Reformed Episcopal Church said in speaking of the Pope's recent encyclical:

"It is a very bright and interesting paper, and many of the points it makes are good and timely. I like the conservative ground it takes in regard to labor unions, and commend most heartly its clear and strong deliverance on the subject of divorce.

"But in reading it there were two things which struck me unpleasantly. The first was its exhibition of statecraft, of wordly wisdom, of adroitness in the way it appeals to the American people while addressing the Catholics in America. The other and more serious aspect of can people while addressing the Catholics in America. The other and more serious aspect of the paper as itstruck me was the imperion in imperio idea which pervales it. It will not tend to allay the fears of those who are watching with an anxious eye the civil polity of the Church of Rome in this country. Its taking ground distinctly in favor of the union of church and State, in defiance of the fundamental principles of our Government, and in disregard of the happy results achieved in this land by their separation; its intimation of the object of Archbishop Satolii's mission to consolidate the Church of Rome in this country, and its covert plea for the establishment by the Fapal power of a legation to this nation; its revealing the fact that the origin and plan and purpose of the university at Washington were all carefully matured in Rome, and its urgent plea that promising young men who seem destined to hold places of power and influence in the Church in the future be sent from this country to Rome to complete their educational training; its stress upon the importance of the Church's parochial schools for Catholic children, and its carnest counsels to Catholic haboring men to unite in societies and asso criations only with Catholics and under the eye of the priest, are all matters which auggest food for serious thought to those who value our liberties in this Protestant land."

The Horse He Borrowed Ran Over a Baker

in the Bowery. Alexander Schruff, a driver for the New York Portrait Company, at 32 Great Jones street, stopped in front of the company's office at 7 o'clock last night, and, on going into the store, asked ten-year-old Gustav Toppinger of 36 tirrat Jones street to watch the horse.

As soon as Schruff entered the store the boy invited a skryear-old chum to jump in and take a ride. They turned into the Bowery, where the horse took fright and got out of the boy's control. boy's control.

At First street the horse ran into William Whitman, a baker, of 220 East Fifth street, and trampled him. As the horse was starting on he was caught by foliceman Medray of the East Fifth street station.

Schruff was arrested as soon as he appeared, and he and the two boys were taken to the station. He was let go, but the boy, Toppinger, was sent to the dierry Society. Whitman was carried to liellevue Hospital. He was bruised on the body and face, and several ribs were broken.

Two days later the authorities received a telegram from a man in Pensacola, Fla., saying that Taylor was there, and sending an accurate description of him. He also said that he was accompanied by a woman. A few days later a letter was received from Taylor postmarked Pensacola.

In putting together "A Bunch of Violets" Sydney Grundy took the material from Gustave Fouillets" Montjoye. "We had a translation of the same play at the Union Square years ago under the title of "The Man of Success." Mr. Grundy's version is a real adaptation. The characters and scenes have become entirely English. Not a trace of the French spirit remains. Much of the matter is original with the English playwright, and he has written tersely, pointedly, and dramatically, without any theatric tone or trick. It is a very cleverwork. Pleasant sentiment is scant in it, to be sure, and there is no "love story;" so it could have no great success with audiences not keen to appreciate its merits as stage literature of a good grade, but it was accepted for its full value at Abbey's, and it went far to correct the mistake which Mr. Tree had made in beginning his season with "The Red Lamp." Wednesday was a more fortunate day for him and his company than Monday had been.

accompanied by a woman. A few days later a letter was received from Taylor postmarked Pensacola.

This came to personal friends of Taylor and was not given to the authorities until recently. It is also known that Taylor had in Memphis a close business friend who had been as late as December intimately associated with him in certain deals for the disposition of the property of the Redfield Mortgage Company.

The theory held by those best informed here is that Taylor left Chicago under the instruction of Lawyer Tenney and accompanied by Henedict, with the intention of taking the boat at New Orleans or Galveston on the way south. Overcome by his troubles, he drank heavily, and thus lost control of himself and was unable to avoid exposure.

He was readily discovered on his arrival in Memphis, and was arrested and his identity disclosed. Then, knowing that this close friend was at hand, he sent for him, and he saw the police and succeeded in releasing Taylor and in springing the story of the negro, not a very plausible tale, but the best that could be hit upon at short notice.

Taylor was then obliged to change his plans. To follow his original plan after the publication of the arrest was to invite capture, so disguised, he turned aside and went over to Pensacola, where he was seen by the detectives, but before anything was done to stop him he went aboard a small steamer for Key West, the stopping place for the steamers which ply between northern ports and Central America. That he is far hey ond the reach of South Dakotaor the United States is generally believed here, and though the detectives may find trace of him they will not bring him back.

Resolutions Adopted by the National Board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.-Resolutions endors ing President Cleveland's message of Monday were adopted to-day by the National Board of Trade in session at the Shoreham Hotel. They were presented to the Board by Mr. Fraley of Philadelphia, Chairman of the committee ap pointed yesterday to consider all questions with reference to the financial situation, and were adopted unanimously without discussion. They were as follows:

were as follows:

Resolved, That the National Board of Trade, now assembled, strongly approves the samest message concerning the financial condition of the country, just sent to Congress by the President of the United States, and strongly hopes that Congress will set aside all feeling except that of paramount duty to the country, and enact that legislation that is necessary to strengthen the Federal Treasury, maintain the public faith and credit, and tend to relieve the industry, trade, and business of the people from the financial disturbances from which they have recently suffered.

Resolved, That this Board thoroughly approves of the recommendations of the President for the issue of bonds, specifically payable, principal and interest, in gold, at a rate of interest not exceeding three percent, as a means to that end.

in gold, at a rate of interest not exceeding three per cent., as a means to that end.

The resolutions were presented to President Cleveland at the White House at I P. M., at the formal call which the members of the Board made in response to his invitation. The President received the members in his private office. The venerable Frederick Fraley briefly assured the President of the country reposed in him. The President in reply declared that he was gratified to receive this expression from such an association. It was a hopeful sign of the times when business men gave their time and attention to financial matters. Every interest of the country rested upon the national honor; with national honor gone there would be nothing left. It was nearest and dearest to every man, woman, and child in the country, and he was glad that his efforts to maintain the national honor were appreciated.

A Preliminary Agreement Which May Lead

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.-It is understood that a preliminary agreement has been reached by the Mexican and Guatemalan representatives in Washington for a settlement of the boundary dispute by friendly arbitration, which needs only the approval of the two Governments to become effective, and no doubt is entertained that President Diaz will give his approval to the plan, which has already received the adhesion of President Barrios. The details of the arrangement cannot be specifically announced at this ment cannot be specifically announced at this time, pending their authoritative adoption, but the fullest confidence is expressed in official circles that war is now out of the question, and that the quarrel will be permanently ended by an entirely amicable agreement, honorable alike to Guatemala and Mexico.

the fullest confidence is expressed in official circles that war is now out of the question, and that the quarrel will be permanently ended by an entirely amicable agreement, honorable alike to Guatemala and Mexico.

Cirty of Mexico, Jan. 30.—An announcement, published here this morning, that the Central American republics of Nicaragua, Honduras, and Salvador, with Costa Rica to follow, would form an alliance with Guatemala, in the event of treuble with Mexico, has caused considerable comment. Senor Castellanoa, the Salvadorian Minister here, on being interviewed, denied having any knowledge of the matter, and Government officials say that no official confirmation of the announcement has been received. The formation of such a Central American league would doubtless tend to increase the fast-rising public sentiment in Mexico against Guatemala.

The denial that the United States proposes to interfere in the Guatemala matter gives great satisfaction here, and the impartial attitude of the United States commands admiration. It is said on good authority that Guatemala is backing down, only one serious difficulty existing, namely, the indemnity demanded by Mexico. Meanwhile Mexico is pushing her war preparations as actively as ever.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—The Kolenische Zeitung says that Guatemala has placed large orders for war material with the best known German factories. Mexico also is said to be negotiating with German makers of small arms. NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

The Atalanta Boot Clab Holds Its Ports. The forty-seventh annual reception of the veteran Atalanta Boat Club was held last night at the Lenox Lyceum, and was the most successful in the long history of the clab. Over 1,500 persons filled the large dancing hall and overflowed the balcony and boxes. Many prominent carsmen from other clubs were present. The decorations of the hall were elaborate and beautiful. The walls were hung with flags and banners from every part of the country, won by the crews of the club in past years. Many were won by the famous senior eight which for so many years swept everything before it. Over the stage the words "Atalanta Boat Club" and the dates "1848-1895" were traced in illuminated letters, and high over the proscentum arch was the red and blue Carsmen, the first one ever made. Evergreens Oarsmen, the first one ever made. Evergreens and potted plants filled the corners and lined the sides of the room. Long lines of red, white, and bite streamers were draped from the dome of the ceiling, and a profusion of electric lights completed the effect, which was one of striking beauty.

President Howard A. MacLean opened the ball at a quarter to 11, dancing with Mrs. MacLean. Among the many visiting oarsmen were:
